Nutrition Minor

Troy University offers a nutrition minor program through the Department of Kinesiology and Health Promotion. A minor in nutrition is an excellent complement to many academic majors including Exercise Science, Hospitality Sport & Tourism, Biology, Chemistry, Human Services, Social Work, Nursing, Psychology, and pre-health professions programs. Nutrition courses provide academic preparation for certification programs such as personal trainer or diabetic educator. Students may also take nutrition courses as electives. All courses are offered conveniently online and will not interfere with course schedules. The minor may be completed in one year. Troy University has partnerships with other universities to accept all courses in the nutrition minor for transfer to undergraduate and graduate programs in nutrition and dietetics.
